A MILLION DOLLARS

May Not Cover the Damage in Southern Louisiana

WROUGHT BY THE GREAT STORM

Which Swept Up From the Gulf—Owing to the Prostration of the Wires It Is Impossible to Give an Accurate Estimate of the Damage—The Plaquemine Orange Crop Ruined.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 4.—The storm which swept up from the south, doing great damage all along the gulf coast, made itself felt very seriously in this city and southern Louisiana. The total loss may reach $1,000,000. Though the wires are down news is trickling into the city from the surrounding country, but it is not possible to give a fairly accurate estimate of the damage wrought by the fury of the elements on Sunday, Sunday night and Monday morning.

The damage done in the city and in the harbor will run considerably over $100,000.

The extreme and conservative opinions are so wide apart that it is Difficult to Approximate the Loss in the country, the major portion of which is confined to the parishes of Jefferson and Plaquemine, and particularly the latter. The upper limit of the storm was not more than a dozen miles above the city.

In the city the storm was not as severe as that of 1888. Here this year the principal sufferers were the shipping interests. The losses include the ferryboat Jocome Hanley, the steam launch Shannon, Grace Pitt, a steamboat, and half a dozen loaded coal barges belonging to Pittsburgh firms, which all went down.

Electric wire poles were toppled over, sheds unroofed and all electric wires in the city suffered great damage.

At West End the revetment levee and railroad tracks were greatly damaged.

Point A LaHache, Bohemia and Prescott, small towns in Plaquemine parish, felt the blunt of the storm. Several houses were blown down and there was much terror felt by the residents until the storm had spent its fury. The loss there will be heavy. Two were killed.

At the Empire mill, near Point A LaHache, a young mulatto woman was killed by falling timbers. Many persons were bruised.

Most of the plantation houses, barns, sheds and fences suffered, and many thousands of dollars will have to be spent in repairing them.

Orange Crop Ruined.

The orange crop of Plaquemine is ruined to the extent of from 200,000 to 400,000 boxes. A conservative estimate puts the crop this year at $100,000. That was before the storm. It is feared that these figures will be cut down 50 per cent, making a money loss of $250,000.

From the Poyras plantation, on the south coast, cane was blown down. No plantations escaped. What the loss will be depends on future investigation. If there is a period of favorable weather and late breeze the cane will live to recover and the loss will be comparatively small.

Rice in Plaquemine has suffered a good deal, much of it having been blown away.

From Bayou Cook, the great oyster field, which leads to the gulf, it is reported that the settlements of the fishermen have been completely demolished, and that the loss of life has reached the appalling figure of 200.

It will be some days before the full extent of the damage wrought will be known, but it is feared here that the grand total will pale into insignificance the number of deaths reported from the storm which recently devastated the Atlantic coast.

Railroad's Loss.

The Louisville and Nashville railroad is tied up. A mile of its track at English Lookout has been wrecked. The pier head of the Pearly bridge is badly injured and the road generally washed out, the wind having blown the water of Lake Bourne across the landing in great volumes and velocity. No trains arrived since Sunday. Wrecking trains are at work at the scene of the trouble. Efforts are to be made to transfer the government mail by boat. It will be two or three days before trains can come through and a week or more before the road will be in fair running order, and a month before the track and roadbed can be made as solid as it was before the storm.

Rivals the Recent Atlantic Storm.

MOBILE, Oct. 4.—The details of the great storm has just begun to come in, and as was feared, indications are that the loss of life in the lowlands east of the city has been very great. There is no doubt that it will be a week or two before the full story of the storm with the attendant tales of death and destruction will be told.

There are no authentic reports from points south of Mobile on the Louisville and Nashville railroad except that two spans of the Biloxi bridge are washed away. The damage to the Louisville and Nashville railroad is beyond computation at this time. Reports from Montgomery are to the effect that the bridge across the Three Mile creek is damaged and a portion of the Texas bridge is washed away.

There are 400 trees across the track between Bay Minets and Sunday creek, a distance of about 10 miles. No trains can get further south than Bay Minets and several washouts are reported.

A rowboat trip of the marshes made by a reporter revealed a tale of desolation and death that will almost equal those sent out a month ago from Savannah and the sea islands.

At every point touched houses were completely gone, while the upper eastern shore was swept as if by a cyclone. From Blakely, as far southeast as reports could be had, the natives report only death and destruction. For miles inland the trees are laid low and much loss of life is reported all along the shore.

Georgia Has a Tornado.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 4.—A dispatch from Atlanta says:

A tornado knocked the little town of Hogan, Ga., all to pieces yesterday afternoon, killing six and injuring several. Hogan is in Tattnall county, 50 miles from Savannah. Bales of cotton were blown 200 yards on the depot platform. The storm was preceded for five minutes by a rumbling sound. The tornado's track was only two miles long.

At Pensacola, Too.

PENSACOLA, Fla., Oct. 4.—The most destructive storm that Pensacola has experienced in 20 years began at 6 a.m. Monday and raged with increased fury until a late hour in the afternoon. The nearest approach to this gale was the storm of 1881. The storm had been brewing some time. Hard rains fell Saturday afternoon and Sunday, but a storm of such great intensity was not expected by any one.

At 4 a.m. the wind freshened and the rain increased in force. By 5 a.m. a terrific southeast gale was blowing which continued at the rate of 55 miles an hour until noon, when the wind shifted to the south and increased to 60 miles.

The signal service station and apparatus were blown down, but the wind instrument of the United States weathered the storm.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

Some Old Silver Talk In the Senate—Money Measure In the House.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—When the fall of the gavel announced the senate to have met there were only a few Republicans in the chamber, not a Democrat being visible. The lack of a quorum was called to the attention of the chair, and after a delay of 15 minutes a quorum was obtained and the regular business of the day was begun.

The vice president laid before the senate a communication from the secretary of the treasury giving a statement of the exports of silver for the months of July and August.

Mr. Dubois introduced a bill enabling the states of California, Colorado, Montana and Idaho to support state schools of mines.

Mr. Morgan offered an amendment to house bill No. 1, the Wilson repeal bill, declaring the act of Jan. 18, 1887, to be enforced.

The bill to repeal the Sherman law was then laid before the senate and a long and heated discussion followed.

House.

Before debate on the election bill was resumed Mr. Bailey, from the committee on judiciary, reported favorably Mr. Rawlins' bill providing for the disposition of property in the hands of the receiver of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, valued at $450,000, and authorizing its application to charitable purposes of said church.

Mr. Northway, who represents the old Garfield district in Ohio, opened the debate in opposition to the measure. Mr. Northway declared he had always had sympathy for the under dog in the fight. In this contest the government was the under dog and it gave him pleasure to defend his party. He proceeded to inveigh against the pernicious doctrines of "states rights," which he said stood like a specter behind the bill. He maintained that whenever congress and states had equal power to act, it was the duty of congress to speak and its voice should be paramount.

His Tomb Is Now Marked.

BROOKLYN, Oct. 4.—The remains of Professor Richard A. Proctor, the eminent astronomer, hitherto lain in an obscure, neglected grave in a corner of Greenwoood cemetery, were transferred with great ceremony, to the tomb that was erected in honor of the deceased by George W. Childs, the Philadelphia journalist and philanthropist. The ceremonies, which began about 11 o'clock, were participated in by men and women well known in the world of science and letters. Dr. Talmage delivered the oration of the day in his impassioned, impressive style.

Great Race Probable.

EVANSTON, Ind., Oct. 4.—A match race for $10,000 a side is being freely talked of here between Arion, 2:10 1-2, and Directum, 2:06 1-2. Arion is the 4-year-old stallion that made 2:10 3-4 as a 2-year-old and cost J. Malcom Forbes of Boston $125,000. Directum is the 4-year-old black whirlwind owned by Monroe Salisbury of Pleasanton, Cal. C. J. Hamlin, the big Buffalo horseman, says Arion is the greatest stallion in the world, while Mr. Salisbury and many others claim that to Directum belongs that honor.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 4.—The reports of leading woolen manufacturers here have decided that the condition of business demanded a reduction in wages.

Just what the reduction will be has not been decided upon, but it will doubtless be between 10 and 15 per cent. The time when the reduction is to go into effect has not been fixed either, but notices will be posted in the various mills next week.

Canal Break.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 4.—A bad break occurred in the Miami and Erie canal where it crosses Mitchell avenue on a viaduct just north of this city. A defective archway collapsed and a deluge resulted. The canal will have to be abandoned until the arch is rebuilt.

BATTLE IN MOROCCO.

Moors Attack a Spanish Garrison at Melilla.

IT WAS 400 AGAINST 6,000.

The Spaniards Fight With Desperation and Finally Force the Enemy to Retreat—Further Engagements Probable. Reinforcements Sent to Help the Believers Troops.

MADRID, Oct. 4.—Further trouble has broken out between the Moors and the Spanish garrison at Melilla, a town on the northern coast of Morocco. They dashed into the ranks of the advancing Moors, their keen edged sabres swinging right and left among the enemy, who broke ranks and retreated as hastily as possible. The Moors were ridden down and trampled upon by the ironbound hoofs of the horses, and a number of them met their death in this manner.

As the news of the battle, rapidly spread by runners, reached the villages back from the coast, the male inhabitants sprang to arms and hastened to the aid of the tribesmen.

The fury of the Moors was added to when the Spanish gunboats wrecked the mosque, which was sacred in the eyes of the natives. This mosque was not in Melilla proper, but in an adjacent village.

The houses destroyed were also outside Melilla. The Spanish government is hastening with all possible speed its preparations for the relief of the beleaguered citadel. Troops, cannon and ammunition are being dispatched from Seville and Malaga.

The Spanish troops fought throughout the day without relief being sent to them. They had no food, but this was a matter of small consequence to them, as they knew that death or slavery awaited them should they fall into the hands of the enemy.

The Moors were constantly gaining fresh accessions to their ranks and the outlook was becoming serious for the Spaniards when the white residents of Melilla, without regard to nationality, offered to assist them.

A civilian corps was at once organized and took part in the defense. They were greatly outnumbered by the Moors, however, and were finally compelled to retire to the fortress, located on the outskirts of the town, where they are still besieged.

During the battle 16 of the Spaniards were killed and 35 wounded, including three officers, whose injuries are serious. The Spanish artillery did great execution. The gunners at one time directed their fire upon a mosque, almost completely destroying it. Other buildings in the range of their fire were also destroyed.

Northern Morocco has been greatly excited by the news of the attack upon the Spaniards, and the fanaticism of the inhabitants is being aroused by the Mohammedan demands for revenge upon the infidels for destroying their mosque. The situation is critical, and further attacks upon the garrison and civilians are expected.

The people of Madrid are angrily excited at the news from Melilla. The populace demand that the government at once send a strong punitive expedition to that port. The government has announced that it will immediately dispatch a warship to Tangiers to demand from the sultan full and instant reparation for the outrages upon the Spaniards.

The cabinet met Tuesday, and it is said that orders will be issued for the sending forthwith to Melilla of a strong military force to punish the Moors.

The attacking Moors are chiefly members of the Riff tribe, who inhabit the mountains in Northern Morocco, and over whom the control of the sultan is virtually nil. These natives have before attacked the garrison at Melilla, and it is thought nothing but the most exemplary punishment will induce them to leave the Spaniards alone.

To punish them, however, will require the expenditure of large sums of money and much time, as upon the approach of a superior military force they retreat into their mountain fastnesses from which it is almost an impossibility to dislodge them.

The sultan himself has sent numerous expeditions against these tribesmen, but the honors between them and the government forces are, if anything, in favor of the mountaineers.

Later dispatches from Melilla state that the Spanish officers and troops displayed the greatest bravery. The town, which is one of the Spanish penal settlements, is commanded by a citadel, which is built on a rock. After the Spanish troops and their civilian allies were forced by overwhelming numbers to retreat into the citadel, the Moors attempted to take the place by assault. They swarmed up the roadway and tried in every way to scale the walls.

The beleaguered men poured volleys at them, but as the Moors did not fight in any regular order the fire was not as destructive as it would otherwise have been.

General Margallo, who was in command of the garrison, especially distinguished himself by his gallantry. Calling for volunteers, nearly every man offered his services. General Margallo placed himself at their head and made a sortie upon the Moors.

The latter retreated, keeping up a heavy fire upon the whites, until the Moors, who had been operating on the other side of the citadel, came to their assistance, when the defenders were driven back. These sorties were repeated throughout the day, but the Moors managed to eventually hold their position.

Before the retreat was made to the citadel troops were dispatched to escort to this place of refuge the military laborers who were employed in the works at Fort Clarich. They succeeded in getting the men into the citadel, but had a hard fight to do so, being attacked on all sides by the Moors.

The natives were armed with Remington rifles and fought with fanatical fury, paying no attention to the shower of bullets aimed at them. They pursued the retreating whites up to the walls of the citadel despite the deadly fire directed at them from the fort. A small body of Spanish cavalry that was well drilled and well handled proved of the utmost service. Toward the end of the day the Moors abandoned their guerrilla mode of warfare and formed themselves into ranks.

Then shouting their battle cries they advanced upon the citadel. When they were within a short distance of the wall, the heavy main gate swung open and out galloped the cavalrymen. They dashed into the ranks of the advancing Moors, their keen edged sabres swinging right and left among the enemy, who broke ranks and retreated as hastily as possible.

The Moors were ridden down and trampled upon by the ironbound hoofs of the horses, and a number of them met their death in this manner.

As the news of the battle, rapidly

IT WAS TIPPED OFF.

A Gigantic Scheme to Swindle the Kentucky Lottery Company.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 4.—A gigantic plot to rob the drawings of the Kentucky Lottery company and to beat the lottery agents of the company in three cities, New York, Chicago and Philadelphia, was frustrated by Detectives Fow and Gorley.

The men engaged in the job had been let in the building of the lottery company by an employee of the company, and were at work when surprised by the detectives. The officers covered them with their revolvers and they willingly threw up their hands, although heavily armed.

Two of the men escaped arrest. The other prisoners gave the names of George Kelly, Frank Euiright and Henry Galbert. Galbert is a negro lineman in the employ of the Postal Telegraph company.

Euiright is a telegraph operator and his right name is Jeffers. In a confession he says he was led into the scheme by Johnny Miller and Frank Books, two other telegraphers. Miller until recently was the chief operator of the Postal Telegraph company here and Books is the night chief at present.

The scheme, as divulged by Jeffers, was to run a wire from the room where the drawings were to take place to another room in the same building. The messages to the three cities were to be sent in advance from the room in which the men were to run the wire.

DYNAMITED WHILE THEY SLEPT.

A Guilty Couple the Victims of a Frightful Crime at Paris, Ky.

PARIS, Ky., Oct. 4.—A most foul murder was perpetrated in Ruckerville, a colored suburb of Paris. Houston Kelly, aged 23, and Eliza Dent, the wife of Bartlett Dent of Cincinnati, attended a hop and returned to her house about 3 o'clock in the morning.

About an hour later, while they lay on a mattress on the floor, someone threw a bomb into the room, it falling between them and tearing off her right arm at the shoulder and his left at the same place, both bodies being badly mangled and death must have resulted instantly.

The Dent woman had frequent quarrels with Dan Darnell, who married the mother of Dent, on account of the property on which she lived. No arrests have been made.

A Young Desperado.

ZANEVILLE, O., Oct. 4.—Residents west of the city have been annoyed considerably of late by a boy, probably 15 or 16 years of age, dressed in old and tattered clothes, who has made his home in a sort of den constructed by cordwood and who has begged a living. Toward boys of his own age he showed a marked antipathy, telling them that he was a boy-killer. He assaulted Will, the young son of Newton Smith of this city, striking him just below the neck with a huge club and knocking him senseless, from which condition he did not recover for hours after being taken home. An attempt was made to arrest his assailant, but he could not be found.

Bookmaker Convicted of Murder.

ALBANY, Oct. 4.—The court of appeals has affirmed the conviction and sentence of Burton C. Webster, the well known bookmaker. He was convicted of manslaughter for the killing of Charles Goodwin in the Percival flats, in New York city in 1891. He was sentenced to 19 years and 10 months in state prison.

Strike Declared Off.

MEMPHIS, Oct. 4.—The strike has been declared off on the Illinois Central and the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley roads

THE SPEAKERSHIP.

The public generally will echo the demand of the Lexington Press for a Speaker of exceptional qualifications to preside over the deliberations of the lower House during the approaching session of the Kentucky Legislature. The session is so short and the business so important that this officer should be coupled only to skilled and experienced hands. The suggestion that Colonel Hart Gibson, of Fayette, is eminently fitted for the position will commend itself to all who are familiar with his reputation as a public man.

"His admirable qualifications," says the Press, "fit him for the position exactly. He will have no rival among his fellow-members in knowledge of parliamentary law and none with more experience in the management of deliberative bodies. He is not new to the duties of legislation, having served in the Legislature once, representing Woodford County, in which capacity he rendered valuable service to the Democracy and the people of the State. During this term he served as Chairman of the Committee on Rules. He was a recognized leader of his party and a trusted political adviser at a time when Democracy was crystallizing into its present form, and shaping itself so as to become the paramount political power in Kentucky. To the people of Fayette he is well known as a presiding officer of county conventions and other public assemblages, in the control of which he exhibited excellent judgment. Colonel Gibson has followed farming for the greater part of his life, and is thoroughly identified with that interest, but he is also a lawyer, being a graduate of Harvard Law School."

Colonel Gibson has many warm friends in Mason and in the adjoining counties, and the name he bears has been for many years familiar and honored in the councils of Kentucky and the South.

MAYSVILLE'S water works have broken down and she is compelled to substitute ginger ale or seltzer on the outside—Covington Commonwealth.

No break down about it, at all. Only the bursting of a main, which is liable to occur at any time in any water system with a pressure like that of Maysville's. We are not compelled to substitute ginger ale—there is an abundant supply of "Adam's ale."

CRIMES AND CHARITIES.

What They Cost Kentucky the Last Fiscal Year—Some Interesting Figures.

A Frankfort special to Louisville Post says: The State Auditor's office is now at work preparing the tables that enter into the biennial report of that department to the Legislature.

Selecting the various items of expenditure for the year to July 1 last that go to make up the cost of punishing crime, including a fair estimate for the pay of criminal juries, and the total sum will be about $450,000. The Assessors report 392,261 legal voters in the State for 1893, which would make an average cost for crime per vote $1.15. While this shows how bad the State was last year, it can be more than offset by the following figures which show how much was paid out for charities:

Feeble-Minded Institute.....	$ 31,651
Blind Asylums.....	31,110
Deaf and Dumb Institution.....	39,425
Central Lunatic Asylum.....	118,320
Eastern Lunatic Asylum.....	96,700
Western Lunatic Asylum.....	77,024
Lunatics not in asylums.....	7,789
Conveyances of lunatics.....	13,893
Idiots.....	66,862
Total.....	$182,774

This sum is more than one-tenth of the gross annual receipts in the treasury, and is an average of $1.23 per legal voter.

October Weather.

Prof. Foster, in his forecasts for this month, says:

"October weather will not be extreme and winter will not come early. Indian summer will be the rule, and the greatest rainfall will occur from the 9th to 21st. The most severe storm will be about the 9th, in the Mississippi valley."

"This storm will develop its greatest force in the Missouri and Mississippi valleys on the 8th and 9th, and the cool wave following it will bring killing frosts to large portions of the cotton country."

"The warm wave will cross the western mountains about the 6th, the great central valleys about the 8th, and the eastern States about the 10th. The cool wave will cross the western mountains about the 9th, the great central valleys about the 11th, and the eastern States about the 13th."

Hicks makes similar predictions.

I will make my display of trimmed goods on Friday and Saturday of this week, as I intend moving in the Mitchell property on Third street, two doors west of Market, and do not care to move all my goods. I will offer them at reduced prices.

THE ordinance forbidding C. and O. conductors to allow trains to stand on the side-track in Dover is being rigidly enforced. Conductor Boyer was fined recently, but refused to pay. He repeated the offense a few days afterwards and when Marshal Manning went to arrest him he found Boyer locked up in the caroose with brakeman Humphreys on guard at the door. Humphreys attempted to draw a pistol and was arrested and fined $31.00 for carrying concealed weapon. While the Marshal had Humphreys in charge Boyer escaped. He afterwards changed his mind, came back, paid his fine and the war is over.

THE RESULT.

Tuesday's Registration Not Up to That of Last Year.

Figures Showing the Enrollment in the Various Wards—The Party Affiliation.

The registration in this city Tuesday was not up to that of 1892. The heavy rain that prevailed most of the day no doubt kept quite a number away from the polls, and there were many voters out of the city. This accounts to some extent for the falling off. Then some were indifferent about the matter, and others thought they couldn't register unless their taxes had been paid, and therefore remained away.

The following shows the total in each precinct:

No. 1	170
No. 2	244
No. 3	200
No. 4	293
No. 5	263
No. 6	205

Total.....1,381

The regular registration a year ago was as follows:

No. 1	190
No. 2	255
No. 3	242
No. 4	311
No. 5	282
No. 6	188

Total.....1,468

This shows a falling off this year of 87 compared with the result in 1892.

Most of those who registered Tuesday gave their party affiliation. In No. 1, 26 were put down as "doubtful," and in No. 6 several were registered as affiliating with "no party." There are two Prohibitionists in No. 6, two Independents in No. 5 and one Independent in No. 3.

The following shows the number of Democrats and Republicans registered in the various precincts:

No. 1	95	47
No. 2	103	130
No. 3	147	44
No. 4	150	120
No. 5	116	121
No. 6	89	98

Total.....702

Democratic majority.....562

Democratic majority.....140

Those who refused to give their party affiliation, together with the Independents, "doubtfuls" and Prohibitionists, number 110. Giving all these to the Republicans, and the Democrats still have a majority of the registered vote. Cleveland carried the city by 17 majority a year ago.
